

TIMEPIECES

BLU

"Ordinary watches never had any appeal to me", say Bernhard Lederer, who already, in his apprenticeship days, loved to work on extraordinary and complicated timepieces. A model like this Blu Terzett echoes this watchmaker's philosophy.

YESLAM

In order to create exclusive timekeeping instruments, the pre-eminence of which meets the demands of its prestigious clientele, Yeslam inaugurated a workshop dedicated to luxury watchmaking about two summers ago in the heart of Geneva. The expert hands apply the similar traditional and rigorous standards as those that made the city world famous for fine, innovative and precise timepieces.

ROMAIN JEROME

Romain Jerome timepieces have proven that the value of rust could surpass that of gold – a state of facts that is all the more meaningful when the metals themselves are enriched. Two metals separated by a century of existence and an ocean of history, united by the determination of a brand and the skills of several specialists. A fusion which brings together the past and future, and a truly unique in watchmaking history.

BUBEN & ZORWEG

No serious collector should be without a Buben & Zorweg watchwinder. Handsomely crafted and ensuring every precious timepiece is taken care of, by continuously maintaining and precisely adjusting complications like moon phase, perpetual calendar and time zones, these watchwinders ensure every piece is kept on the go in enviable style.
